CUMBERLAND GAP AS PARK SITE URGED

New Chairman of Park Commission Says Location Is Ideal.

RECOUNTS HISTORY

Dr. Jillson Brings Strong Argument for Local Park Site Before Governor Fields.

Associated Press

FRANKFORT July 21—Cumberland Gap is picturesque strategic, historic it possesses all of the physical qualifications of the ideal state park site declared Dr Willard Rouse Jillson newly appointed chairman of the Kentucky Park Commission, today in beginning his work of selecting suitable sites

He detailed the first of his findings since his appointment by Gov Fields last week

In the southeastern part of Kentucky on the Virginia line, there is located in Bell county an old abandoned water gap which takes its name from the Cumberland Mountains in which it is situated Cumberland Gap, the former pathway of a great through flowing river, heading at some distant points undoubtedly in Eastern Tennessee and Western Carolina is unique and dear to the hearts of Kentuckians in many respects

Abandoned by the river as the result of a great piracy countless thousands of years ago when the white man first came to this section it was already a gateway well known to the buffalo and Indian Dr Thomas Walker passed through Cumberland Gap in his explorations of Kentucky in 1750, and there is little doubt since he apparently knew about it and made it an important objective, but that it had even at that early time already been found by some other earlier trading or exploring white man now long since forgotten

Boone Day Recalled

It was through the Cumberland Gap and under the precipitous brow of Pinnacle Mountain rising to a height of 2,500 feet that Boone led the westward march of the early Kentucky hunters and immigrants

This gap was the much used back door—really the front door for a time—during the great migration and settlement of Kentucky During the Civil War it was one of the strategic points of natural advantage sought by the contending Union and Confederate armies Today and for all time it will be the principal automobile thoroughfare from the northwest to the seaboard states of the Atlantic Louisville, Lexington and Cincinnati are on the other side, Knoxville Chattanooga and Asheville on the other It is on the direct and shortest line from Chicago to Jacksonville

The Cumberland Mountain, in which the great gap is situated, is one of the two true mountains of elevation in Kentucky

It rises in close proximity to the Gap to elevations of about 3,000 feet The mountain itself is composed of a series of clastic sediments the most prominent of which is the Pine Mountain on the other side of the Middlesboro syncline, of Lee sandstone formation It is a conglomerate and the lowest of the Pottsville group in Kentucky

Of Geological Interest

The local geological section shows in association with this mountain making formation a series of sandstone and shales all belonging to the same early coal measure groups These beds have a thickness in this locality of 3,500 feet, and are underlain by the limestones and shales of Mississippian age which though comparatively thin in this section, afford numerous sinks caves and caverns"

Dr Jillson, who is state geologist, said he has had fieldmen over that section and showed the Associated Press correspondent exhibits of specimens in stones being gathered by the geological department and about which he is writing a book What he said is a glacial stone, was also shown He then resumed discussion of the Cumberland Gap to which he said he had given considerable personal research work for presentation to the newly created park commission at an early conference

"Situated on the edge of the important Southeastern Kentucky Coal field, the mineral resources of the restricted Cumberland Gap region are practically of no value," he continued Neither

HOOCH DELIVERED TO WRONG PARTY

Officer Gets Contraband From Rum Runner Who Considered Him a Confederate

Willie Thompson, colored evidently an amateur at the rum running game told in police court this morning of how he had delivered his cargo of booze to Capt Bill White night patrolman

The man who had delivered the whiskey to the negro had told him that a man would meet him with a car at the ball park, get out of the car and hold up his hands This man, he was told, was to be the consignee

Sure enough a man did meet him there, get out of his car and give the required signal but by an odd coincidence it happened to be an officer He took the liquor and also the transporter The booch, twelve gallons in twice as many fruit jars was poured out at the city hall this morning

The mistake of Thompson cost him $200 and thirty days in jail

FISH HATCHERIES PLAN FOR STATE

Ray B Moss of Pineville is Chairman of the Commission of Fisheries.

Associated Press

FRANKFORT July 21—One of the finest fish hatcheries in the country will be eventually completed at the Forks four miles from Frankfort in the expressed view of George L Wagoner new executive agent of the Kentucky Game and Fish Commission

Three new concrete dams costing $850 and two new hatching ponds costing $1500 have been constructed In the fall of 1922 the commission acquired the Ed Dean fish hatchery, consisting of nine acres of ground, with four large ponds thereon at $81-150 cost The water supply to these ponds is from one of the largest springs in Southern Kentucky he said today

There is plenty of acreage for the construction of more pond and when available space for that purpose has been occupied, this will be one of the finest hatcheries in the United States he said

It is the intention of the commission to construct at least two more hatcheries at advantageous geographical points in the state, thus eliminating the use of the fish car to a large extent and using trucks instead

This arrangement will obviate the necessity for the long hauls now made and enable the commission to deliver fish for stocking purposes in much better condition

The biennial report covering operations, transactions receipts and disbursements of the commission for the years 1920 1921 1922 and 1923 is being printed As the legislatures of 1921, 1922 1923 and 1924 did not make any change in the statutes relating to game and fish it was deemed advisable by the commission to combine the reports for 1920 1921 and 1922 23 in one volume

Ray B Moss Pineville, is chairman of the commission Richard McGraw, Covington Alonzo Trigg Glasgow and J M Richardson, Somerset, members

Mr Waggoner said he intends to give over his time to promotion of strict enforcement of the law through wardens assisted by boy scouts over the state

LIGHT VOTE IN PRIMARY IS FORECAST

Candidates for Senate Not Making Strong Fight.

LANGLEY IS IN RACE

Five Democrats In Congress Are Not Opposed—Robsion, Bingham Race Here.

FRANKFORT, July 21—A light vote generally is expected in the primary election Saturday, August 2 Primary contests over the seat in the United States senate held by Senator A C Stanley, democrat backing the present state administration is the outstanding feature Candidates have refrained from any strenuous campaign and even over this senate seat, Sen Stanley and his democratic opponent John Junior Howe have spoken but several times with Sen Stanley virtually taking no part

The republican contest, leading up to the November fight for the berth contains little more interest but B J Bethurum, Lexington and Fred M Sackett Louisville have waged no continued speaking campaign

In the congressional field interest centers in the tenth district Here in eastern Kentucky Congressman John W Langley republican Pikeville, recently convicted in federal court on charge of conspiracy illegally to remove whiskey stored in the Belle of Anderson Distillery, fires F Scott Duff, also of Pikeville in the republican end while Alex I Rallin Pikeville, and Barney W Baker Hazard, seek the democratic nomination

Fred M Vinson democratic incumbent in congress from the Ninth District, Gov Fields district, has as an opponent Ryland C Musick Vinson is known to have Gov Fields' support

Five democrats in congress Congressmen Robert W Barkley, D H Kincheloe Ben Johnson, Arthur B Rouse and Ralph Gilbert, first, second fourth sixth and eighth districts respectively the strongly democratic sections of the state, in western and central Kentucky are without opposition

No opposition is encountered by republicans in the first, fourth and sixth districts for congress

In the mountains Congressman J M Robsion Barbourville has for opponent Judge D M Bingham Pineville Rep D C Jones Harlan the Lanky, well known figure in the 1924 state legislature was blue from the race recently

Virgil Chapman Paris and M A Jones Lexington are after the democratic seat left in congress by J Campbell Cantrill, who died last fall after he had received the democratic nomination for governor

RUMANIAN PARTIES REACH AGREEMENTS

Several Months of Arguments Result In Agreement on Common Program

By Associated Press

BUCHAREST, July 21—After several months of negotiation, the two strongest opposition parties in the Rumanian parliament have finally reached agreement upon a common program These parties are the Transylvanian Nationalists, under Dr Nicholas Lupu While the new group, which will be known as the National Peasants party under the parliamentary leadership of Mr Maniu will control at present only Jules Maniu, and the Peasants under about 25 percent of the voting strength of the Chamber of Deputies, its strength in the country is enormously greater

In an election that freely expressed the preferences of the voters it is believed the Nationalists would have an almost unanimous vote in the new territories of Transylvania, Bocovina and the Banat, while the Peasants could undoubtedly count on a substantial majority in the Old Kingdom and in Bessarabia In other words, the new "bloc" would probably have an overwhelming parliamentary majority, in spite of the fact that it would place the government of the country largely in the hands of Transylvanians

There was apparently a mistake in the case of Capt Golden as the plaintiff was unable to make out a case according to Judge Bingham, and the matter was dropped The case of Squire Creech had not been heard at the last reports from the judges of five

ANOTHER STILL IS TAKEN BY RAIDERS

Constable Thompson, Sheriff Greer and Deputies Find Outfit Near Lake

An all night vigil by officers failed to result in the capture of the owner of a still which they destroyed near Fern Lake early yesterday morning Finding the illicit distilling outfit Saturday, Constable J A Thompson and deputies, Sheriff J A Greer of Claiborne county and his deputies and Tom Cinnamon, Bell county deputy, waited all night in the vicinity hoping, that the operator would put in appearance but to no avail

At 6 o'clock yesterday morning they destroyed the still, 250 gallons of mash and a gallon jug of weak booze Unable to cut up the iron fifty five gallons still, they shot it full of hole

Another outfit was reported to Constable Thompson Friday in the vicinity of Fern Lake On going to the place Saturday, two of the six barrels had been taken from the dug out and the other parts of outfit removed or destroyed It is believed that the moonshiners themselves did this work of destruction after they suspected that a raid was to be made

Indications are that an organization of moonshiners exist in the Fern Lake vicinity During the past year several distilling outfits have been found and destroyed but in the majority of cases the ownership of the illicit property could not be traced

TRIAL WEDNESDAY

Case of Chicago Slayers Takes Surprising Turn When Plea of Guilty Is Entered.

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 21—The fate of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, indicted for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks rested today in the mercy of the court following the plea of guilty by both youths after they had been informed that such a plea would mean death or life imprisonment

The degree of punishment which may vary from indeterminate imprisonment to death will be determined after the hearing starting at 10 o'clock Wednesday

In entering the plea of guilty, Attorney Darrow admitted the correctness of facts substantially as printed in the newspapers He asked permission, however, to offer evidence concerning the mental condition of Leopold and Loeb and their degree of responsibility

Judge John Gaverly agreed to hear both sides on mental responsibility of the congessed slayers The court, realizing the grave responsibility which the sudden turn of the notorious case placed upon him, told the attorney he would let nothing interfere with as speedy a conclusion of the hearing is possible

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 21—The defense counsel at the opening of the trial today of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb for the murder of Robert Franks moved to have withdrawn the plea of not guilty ,substituting the plea of guilty After advising the defense counsel that the plea of guilty made possible the extreme penalty of which the defense counsel acknowledged cognizance Chief Justice Caverly allowed the plea to be entered by the defense The move was a surprise to the state counsel who anticipated a motion for continuance

JUVENILE DELINQUENTS IN THE CITY OF MIDDLESBORO

According to Chief of Police Bah we have, approximately, including girls under twenty-one, one hundred cases annually of juvenile delinquency. The chief states the greatest contributory cause is idleness and the want of wholesome and constructive ways for young people to spend their leisure.

Looking back on the halcyon days of youth every one of middle age can sum up their adolescent years and see where time was wasted that could have been employed to material advantage. We all remember, the admonitions of parents and those interested in our welfare to improve our time. The fact that we didn't face a juvenile judge or probation officer is no evidence that our youth could not have been employed to a material advantage to ourselves, if our energies had been directed in some systematic manner by those most interested in our youthful welfare.

Parents, and the public in general can expect that a good deal of mischief will result when young people are idle. A puppy will worry a kitten or young chickens to death or tear the leaves from a de luxe volume that has fallen under his roguish impulses to destroy while the kindest of hearts throbs in his canine breast. Contrary to the old maxim that we are as prone to sin as the sparks to fly upward, the contrary is generally the case. The disposition to work is inborn in mankind. The disposition of a gentleman of leisure is largely the result of environment and usually the right job will work a wonderful change in youth or adult who fall in this class.

Child idleness may be as destructive to the community than child labor while the latter must always be of a healthful character. Keeping the child busy is always a problem in urban families and giving him or her healthful exercise at work and play one not easily solved. In the country, the job is always present and problem solves itself with the result that we find the farm boy or girl when brought into contact with city life forging ahead and making their way through that early training of work, to a position of trust in the world of endeavor into which they are thrown. Directed play goes far in solving the problem for the city parent and taxpayer.

THE CASE OF THE RITZ-CARLTON

Under an information filed in Federal Court, Duncan Harris, president, Errol Kerr, treasurer and John Watt, secretary of the Ritz-Carlton Restaurant and Hotel Company, New York, have been arrested and placed under $1,000 bonds each for pleading today. None of the defendants will be indicted but following the usual procedure in prohibition cases will be taken before a Federal judge who will hear the information. The defense will set up to claim that the champagne alleged to have been found on the premises was smuggled into the Japanese garden without the knowledge of the hotel management.

The government will attempt to padlock the entire establishment and if it succeeds, the putting on of the lid on a hotel of this size and standing will go far towards removing the stigma of non enforcement that has been fastened on the officials whose duty it is to carry out the Volstead act.

There is no doubt a large fund is available in the United States today to defeat the enforcement of the Volstead law. A larger part of this fund no doubt comes from abroad. Nearly two years ago the assertion was made in Naples, Italy, that a large fund had been subscribed by the liquor interests of southern Europe to be used to assist the wets everywhere and especially in the United States in their fight against law enforcement. From the decided wet not in some of the larger city papers, it would seem that some of this fund has reached the place for which it was intended. Last year when the wets brought on the referendum election in Ohio, James A. White gave out the information that some of the foreign money was used in an effort to corrupt the Ohio election and discredit the Anti Saloon league in its home state.

Friends of prohibition may expect the city press that is favorable to non enforcement to fly to the rescue of these "reputable business men" of New York who are being persecuted in their innocence. If Harris, Kerr and Watt had no knowledge of liquor being sold on the premise it is unfortunate for the stockholders of the Ritz-Carlton company but they elected these men as managers of the company and if there is a resulting loss through mismanagement in allowing law breaking to go forward on hotel property it is no concern of the general public.

On the other hand if it is proven that the accredited officials of the company knew of the violation of the law, adequate punishment would be meted out to them per quality as well as the air tight verdict on the hotel itself.

Advanced Guard of the American Bar Reaches London, headline. And we were about the first thing quite a number of the advance guard did was to make for the bar.

Our Copenhagen correspondent advises us that the town is the rendezvous for League of Nations spokesman and we suppose that about everyone that voted for it in 1920 must be there.

Now that Nicholas Murray Butler has returned from British Columbia with the whole liquor system or that province in his hat band, we convention delegates will be able to get a little nip anywhere from Columbia campus to the Battery the next time.

We will write H. P. Faris, prohibition party nominee for president today telling him that we will be unable to contribute to financing of the prohibition ticket this fall as all our political munitions of money, men and material is going for the advancement of the dry LaFollette-Wheeler ticket.

Now that the women of Great Britain are about to receive the blessed boon of the ballot, its to be expected the poor things will do nothing but stand around, read the bulletin boards and talk politics like the American women do.

A little misunderstanding has arisen between our friend George Brennen and ourselves over which candidate he will support but we hope to see him out with all us progressive democrats voting for LaFollette and Wheeler, and we are depending on our mutual friend Jimmie Cox to bring him around all right

Our office expert after receiving a report from all the states and from the headquarters of the different parties announces as follows: President Coolidge as head of the republican ticket will not carry South Carolina, John W. Davis as head of the democratic ticket will not carry Vermont and Senator LaFollette as head of the progressive democratic ticket will not carry New York.

WHAT A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEANS

J. C. Manser in Rockwood Times)

The question has been often asked me to tell what a Chamber of Commerce means to a town. This is a hard question and one to be answered intelligently would take longer space than has been allotted to me here. Because a Chamber of Commerce means so many things to a community. In these days and times a new spirit of local patriotism has come to us all within the last few years. The modern Chamber of Commerce today is represented within 3,000 cities, towns and villages in the United States. They have been organized by people of the community for the purpose of working out a plan of concerted advancement. Many names have been used for these organizations; for the most of them are known as the Chamber of Commerce. Until this word has become standardized the Chamber of Commerce means a city force for good. It is a clearing house of thoughts of the community and machinery for the putting of all good thoughts into action. A Chamber of Commerce offers the best opportunity to work along the right lines of community development. Because it reaches the people right here at home. A Chamber of Commerce if organized in the town belongs to you. If you do not belong to it, it's your duty to belong. If you do belong and do not attend the meetings then you are not in a position to criticize because you do not know what the body is doing. The activities of the Chamber of Commerce are many and varied. Whatever can be done to benefit a local community and what can be done to make a cleaner, happier and better community, a Chamber of Commerce will do it. Patriotism, like charity, begins at home. The love of one's home town should be more intimate emotion than the love of one's country. The average way of organizing a Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of developing a town or community is for a few active and conscientious workers to get together, pay what expenses of the organization and to outline plans for the betterment of that community as a whole. This plan of procedure is all wrong. This community does not belong to any individuals. Then why should a few try to do all the work? Would it not be better for everyone to lend a helping hand for upholding a community, wielding a bigger force, a stronger organization for the advancement of the community of all the entire people as a whole. The people of a community owe more to that community than the mere fact that they pay taxes. You owe to that community your thoughts and your ideas and thoughts are along the line of community good, it will be beneficial to all. Any community organization, that is organized only for a selfish purpose, does no constructive work in its community, then than organization instead of being a community benefit becomes a community detriment. One of the biggest needs of the modern American city today is more neighborliness. In our rush for the greed of gold we have allowed our cities to become collectors of people with a mad desire to accomplish things from a selfish standpoint. The smaller cities of America have a big advantage over the larger ones. For one finds in these a community in every sense of the word, a city of neighborliness, uprightness, and religiousness. It is an old saying "Show me the class of Chamber of Commerce and I will show you the citizens you have." But I am going a bit further upon this score and say this "Show me a modern business man, or professional man, for that matter, that is not sold upon the ideas of the value of a Chamber of Commerce for a community and I will show a man who lives unto himself, for self alone. Who looks upon his business as a means of getting what he can out of a community and putting nothing back." His idea is living is not "getting to give" but "giving to get." I want to say to you here that the work of the Chamber of Commerce is never finished, and never will be finished, and the only town where the Chamber's work has been finished is one that is swallowed up by an earthquake, blown away by a storm, destroyed by a fire or dead with dry rot within. For one success merely opens to doors for bigger and grander successes. Most Chamber of Commerce organizations can ever hope to be more active than its members. The work of Chamber of Commerce will be for constructive and helpful to you city. It means the gathering of men and women with ideas that will be developed and amount to big things in your Chamber of Commerce. If you are blessed with an idea that you believe in it's your duty as a citizen to put that idea before your Chamber of Commerce. Go to your Chamber of Commerce with your ideas and invite friendly criticism of them. There may be a dozen ideas presented to your organization and yours may be the only one of these that amounts to anything. But that idea might develop with the community back of it. Your great idea too will mean for the greatest, the community betterment, success and good of your city. It is the work that you put into a Chamber of Commerce that gets you most of living as a citizen. You will never get more out of a Chamber of Commerce than just what you put into it. If you are one of those fellows who says that "George ought to do it," you ought to move away so George could do it. It is surprising fact that the average Chamber of Commerce with its progress of building and working for all the people is usually about 2 percent of the people of the community. If you ask the average business man why he belongs to the Chamber of Commerce, his answer will probably be this, "Well it's a business man's organization and business men belong to it and they have a banquet once a year." That is a Heck of an answer for a man of business to give to a question of that kind

Achievement is the goal of any Chamber of Commerce, it is its purpose, its desire, the reason of its existence. Only by a conscientious effort to achieve can a commercial organization justify its existence.

The undertaking and enterprises should be undertakings and enterprises fixed upon by the aspirations of the community. Their achievements should be for the benefit not only of the membership but of the city as a whole.

A Chamber of Commerce seeking to enhance the interests of a selfish group or clique might better not exist. Better a city without a promotional organization than a city with an organization devoted to selfish ideal of purpose.

Your Chamber is a medium of service to you. But it cannot serve you well or justly if its service to you is to the detriment of your fellow citizens. Any undertaking designed only for the benefit of a few indicates a lack of vision, and vision is the essential of success in any public-spirited enterprise or venture.

Regarding Milk

Editor Daily News:—

How many times have you heard the remark: "Oh, how I would like to go back to the good old days." But would we?

Of course it would be nice to go back to the old swimming hole, mother's big feather bed, etc., but those days have gone forever. Who now would like to go back to the old days in our cities when the geese used the main street for their runways, when the cows and pigs played "hide and seek" in our yards and flower beds?

We have progressed far beyond all these things. No longer do we leave our doors and windows unscreened for the flies to swarm over the house no longer do we sit at our tables and fight flies with a handful of switches fully leaved out. Now days everything must be modern and sanitary. Sanitation is being fought for in all phases of life but in none more than in the matter of milk.

No more do we see milk being sold from cows that are milked in open bucket any place that they happen to stop long enough for the owner to milk them. Now everything possible is being done by machinery. Dairymen are specializing in their line and central milk depots, where the vital fluid is pasteurized and made absolutely sanitary are springing up in all cities and even small towns.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—"Corn and hogs can win the election."

That is the dictum of keen-minded political gentlemen who are watching with interest the steadily mounting quotations on the above farm products. In them is seen much more than a mere market report; even much more than an index of at least temporarily returning agricultural prosperity.

For as a factor of real importance in the coming campaign, more potent than the fact that William Jennings Bryan will campaign for the Democratic ticket or that Charley Dawes helped win the war, $10 hogs and $1 corn may be the most persuasive of all arguments to millions of voters.

Tariff and taxation are abstruse, involved issues at best. But corn and hogs!

There's something definite, tangible, readily visualized and easily understood!

Is the steadily strengthening market for these staple farm products an entirely natural and normal process, or is it being assisted by artificial stimulation, for political purposes?

That is a question that is being studied closely by economists in both the Democratic and Independent camps.

There is an underlying suspicion that just as the farmer was "deflated" by orders from Washington following the last election, he is now being "inflated" on instructions from the same source.

The theory, of course, is that strong markets and better prices through the next five months may make it possible to hold in the Republican ranks the normally Republican agricultural vote, which has been threatening to run amuck.

Improving prices for farm produce, whether naturally or artifically sustained ,inevitably give aid to the Coolidge campaign.

Oddly enough, coincident with the upward trend in corn and hogs, comes an announcement of reduced prices on a long line of staples, from calicoes to corn shredders, which big mail order houses supply to farm buyers.

That, Democrats and Independents alike insist, looks s-s-suspicious! Something wrong somewhere. Better investigate! So they do.

Result: They find it's been a cold, wet spring. Farmers were late getting plowing and planting done and crop generally is delayed. Probably will be under normal in yield. Therefore the mounting corn prices.

Early pigs didn't thrive during unseasonable spring. Ills of pig infancy multiplied and death rate increased. Fewer pigs, more valuable. Also, remaining pigs must be fed higher priced corn. Higer pig prices imperative.

On the reverse side, the declining prices on what the farmer buys, the trail leads back to the weather again. Late, backward spring. Resulting light buying. Merchants and dealers overstocked. Prices slashed in order to move stocks before fall.

That's as far as the "investigations" have gotten to date.

And while the skeptics are sniffing around trying to scent something rotten in Denmark, not yet willing to accept the situation as altogether natural, Republicans smile broadly and give their explanation. Which is:

"Coolidge Luck!"

The one uncertain factor in the equation is: "Will the farmer, this year, react according to Hoyle?" If he does, then corn and hogs give Coolidge an advantage.

But with both Dems and Independents set on keeping Coolidge from "hogging" the vote, there's a real fight ahead anyway.

FREE LIBRARIES FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Traveling Libraries Available For the Rural Schools, Librarian Explains.

Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, July 21.—Do you know that free book service is provided by the state through a system of traveling libraries?

Miss Fannie C. Rawson, secretary and director of library extension in Kentucky Library Commission, asked county superintendents this question in a statement made public today:

"The traveling libraries are fixed groups of books containing 50 columes each," she declared, "School collections are assembled in three kinds of groups elementary, graded school and high school. All collections contain both fiction and non-fiction. The books are sent in shelved wooden cases, neatly made and provided with lock and key. The only cost to the county is a $2 transportation fee.

"To secure the loan of a traveling library write to the Kentucky Library Commission for lists of books from which a selection may be made, indicating grades to be covered. The loan is made for six months or for the school term, or an exchange of libraries may be made at any time."

GAS TAX INCREASE

Summary of New Laws and Provisions Announced at State Capital—Bible Law Effective.

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 21.—Officials here generally estimate that county clerk's fees in counties of the state will total about $40,000 as a result of the new motor vehicle license law, increasing the county clerk's registration fees from 30 to 50 cents.

Attorney General Frank E. Daughtery, however, has ruled that "under the constitution, county clerks holding office at the time the increased fees became effective, are not entitled to such increase." He made this statement in a letter to L. B. Davis, Monroe county clerk, Tomkinsville, Ky.

Other acts of 1924 have removed all oil inspectors in the state and it is understood a suit will be brought to test that law. The gasoline tax has been increased from one to three cents and revenue is coming into the auditor's office from wholesalers.

There is an act providing for compulsory reading of the Bible in the public schools. Failure this fall on the part of the teacher to carry out the provisions of this law will be grounds for dismissal.

The Nelson tax law carried a 25 percent reduction in taxation of real estate. This law takes the place of the revenue law passed at the special session of 1917. The principal change are only two: one being the reduction of the rate on real estate from 40 to 30 cents on $100 valuation; the other being an increase on personal property, tangible and intangable, from 10 to 50 cents.

The educational laws include a new certification of teachers' acts and a reorganization of the state department. They provide for and assistant to the superintendent.

Several laws of a general nature dealing with motor vehicles, punishment of drunken drivers, a tax on motor truks, the making of Armistice Day a legal holiday and a number of criminal statutes are operative.

The state highway commission has been reorganized under provisions of the law creating the position of executive secretary, accountable only to the governor. Gov. Fields recently appointed M. E. S. Posey, Ashland, formerly in the highway department, to the position to serve until Dec. 31, this year.

"If Mr. Posey continues the good work he is doing, there is no question that he will be reappointed," Gov. Fields said. "It is the most important position in Frankfort. Mr. Posey serves as a special investigator for me. I am unable to spend all my time at the department. His reports will be made public."

Another law created the position of supervisor of automobile bus lines, held by Sen. Griffin Kelly of Owensboro, to check operation of all bus lines in the state under the highway department. The new bus line department has been active since its inception and many licenese issued to companied over the state.

Dr. Williard Rouse Jillson, state geologist, and chairman of the Kentucky Park Commission, is working out plans of the new law creating the commission. A forestry department also was created but appointment by the governor of a forester held up.

Among other laws compiled by the attorney general and obtained in book form from the printer today are:

Forbidding magistrate from receiving any benefit from public county works under penalty of a $50 to $200 fine or a tne to forty day jail sentence.

Agricultural acts including one imposing constructive notice on a landlord that his tenant is a member of the cooperative association.

Another measure requiring all loose leaf tobacco sales houses to post notice of the real names of owners of tobacco for whom they sell.

Another providing that 75 pounds will be the measure of a bushel of corn.

With a view of conveniencing the tobacco growers the legislature passed an act fixing March 1 as the date taxes will become delinquent. The preceding legislature passed a similar bill but Gov. Morrow vetoed it.

The office of chief labor inspector was created and placed under supervision of the Commissioner of Agriculture, also having charge of the state forestry department.

A real estate commission was created and all real estate brokers required to buy licenses.

Another law is one, concerning liability of stockholders of banks, permitting action without delay to enforce the double inability obligation.

A drastic measure gives the governor power to remove a sheriff, jailer or any peace officer for malfeasance of misfeasance in office of failure to enforce law.

ROAD CONDITIONS TO SOON IMPROVE

Joe S. Boggs Gives Weekly Report On Conditions of Roads in State.

FRANKFORT, July 21.—With the new biennial working period of teh state highway commission under way, the conditions of roads will pick up gradually through attention directed to them, Joe S. Boggs, state highway engineer, said today, making public the weekly detour and road conditios bulletin of the state highway department. The bulletin:

Eastern Dixie Highway

The road through Decoursey, Kenton and Demosville is still closed while repairs are being made south of Kenton. Southbound traffic from Cincinnati should cross the river at Newport, then go by way of Alexandria, and Grant's Lick to Butler. At Butler turn to the right to avoid construction south of town, and go to the LLL road then turn right one mile to Gassy Creek; then bear to the left until LLL road is reached again, then go through Cynthiana and Paris to Lexington. Excepting a few rough places this road is in good contion to Lexington.

The LLL road south of Covington, between Bank Lick Creek (a point four miles south of Latonia) and Piner is under construction. There are several detours and a difficult ford to cross. For safe and certain going, take the Alexandria route just described.

The Dixie Highway south of Covington is under construction. Local traffic through Florence and Williamstown should detour at Walton and Bracht Station.

From Lexington to Rockcastle County line there are two rought stretches of three miles each. (See Rockcastle county).

Rockcastle County.—From Madison County line to Mt. Vernon is rough but repairs are being made. Most of the traffic going via Nicholasville, Camp Dick Robinson, Lancaster, Crab Orchard, and Mt. Vernon to avoid repair work. In traveling from Mt Vernon to Livingston, keep the main road, which is in good condition, excepting the neew earth grade one mile north of Livingston, this at present is in fair condition, and traffic is going through with but little difficulty. From Livingston to Rockcastle River the gravel surface is in good condition.

Laurel County—The earth grade just south of Rockcastle River is in good condition at present. Traffic is going through with ease in dry weather. The waterbound macadam section joining this on the sout his in excellent condition.

Whitney County. — Macadam road from Corbin to Williamsburg is in excellent condition. Form Williamsburg to Jellico, the graded earth road is in good condition in dry weather; traffic going through with ease except after heavy reain. From Corbin, travelers bound for Tennessee and beyond should take the "Boone Way."

Boone Way

Knox County.—Tennessee traffic should go by way of Barbourville, Pineville, and Middlesboro to Cumberland Gap. Grade and drain constrnction in progress between Corbin and Barbourville.

The road three miles south of Corbin by way of Woodbine and Dishman Springs to Barbourville, is now in good condition. Road through Barbourville, Pineville, and Middlesboro to Cumberland Gap in good to excellent condition. Watch for the "Invisible Track Road in Pineville; you will know it by the four longitudinal ruts in the surfbace.

Glet,idrtinisonrt..oushPine- and that

Midland Trail

Going west from Ashland traffic will find a paved road in good condition to the Carter County line, a distance of 13.3 miles. There is a graded earth road from the Carter County line thru Grayson and Olive Hill to Morehead, excellent except in rain weather. From Morehead to Farmers is rock asphalt in excellent condition. Farmers to Owingsville fair, can be traveled at any time. Owingsville to Mt. Sterling, detour at Montgomery County line to Mt. Sterling. Detour signs at road intersections. From Mt. Sterling thru Winchester, Versailles, and Frankfort to Shelbyville, road is in good condition. There is a detour west of Shelbyville, turn left at the barricade and go through Venchdale and Clark's Station. Travelers are advised to drive carefully as the detour is very narrow in places and somewhat muddy in wet weather. After leaving Clark's Station go either by Middletown or Jeffersontown.

Eastern Dixie Highway

(Louisville-Bowling Green)

In excellent condition from Louisville to Camp Knox. Rough through reservation. At Camp Knox Detour west through Vine Grove returning to Dixie Highway at Elizabethtown. Detour in fair condition.

Road under construction south of Elizabethtown, detour at construction gate in Elizabethtown through Glendale and Sonora to Upton.

Detour poor but passable. From Upton to Bowling Green road good.

From Bowling Green to Russellville rough; from Russellville to Adairville fair. Through southbound traffic on the Dixie should go from Bowling Green through Franklin. All detours marked by State Highway department.

Mayo Trail

South of Catlettsburg to the month of Laurel Creek is under construction and impassable. Detour via Cannonsburg to Laurel Creek. Finished grade to Louisa. Construction under way between Louisa and Pikeville; do not try to go beyond Louisa.

Pike County—Pikeville-Williamson road open to traffic except one mile between Road Fork and Williamson, which is impassable.

Eastern Kentucky

Lewis County.—Vanceburg-Maysville road under construction. Extremely rough but can be traveled.

Clark, Powel, and Wolfe Counties.—Winchester-Campton road under construction between Winchester and Campton. Traffic from Winchester to Clay City detour from Winchester-Mt. Sterling Pike at Sewell's Shop, thence via Kidville, Indian Fields and Clay City to Campton. Passable only in dry weather.

Hero of Hitless Game

The first hitless game of the big lea gue season goes to the credit of Jesse Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals, who turned in a pitching classic against the Boston Braves, scoring a 5-0 victory. Haines walked one batter in the first, and two in the sixth. These were the only men to reach first base. No Cardinal player was charged with an error and not one hard chance was fired at any fielder during the game.

Wits and Brakes Only Rule for Auto Driver

By Associated Press

PARIS, July 21.—The Prefect of Police of Paris is now issuing permits to drive motor cars at the rate of 1,000 a month.

The police department is considering a new regulation of traffic that will relegate all cars driven into Paris for mere pleasure to the less congested parts of the town. At present all regulations are disregarded. The chauffeurs say that otherwise there would be no possibility of moving about in Paris. The drivers depend entirely on their wits and their brakes. Speed regulations were forgotten long ago, but it is said they will come into use again when the new code of rules has been completed.

The Brook Where Forget-Me-Nots Grow.

(Boston Transcript)

There are fields of forgetfulness, scarlet as flame,
Where the light o' love poppies, they blow.
But fond memory's garden is always the same
By the brook where forget-me-nots grow.
There are gardens of roses, a crimson host,
Perfumes poignant, with passion aglow,
But my garden of gardens, the one I love most,
Is the brook where forget me-nots grow.
There's a spot where the blossoms are blue as the skies
That are blent in the waters below,
And 'tis there I am nearest the heaven of your eyes,
By the brook where forget-me-nots grow.
Though apart we are swept upon life's rushing stream,
May we come with the ebb of its flow
To the flowering shore of a beautiful dream
And a brook where forget-me-not grow!

To Be Placed at Boston Where Emancipator Spoke.

AUSPICES OF G. A. R.

Speaking of Lincoln at Boston In 1848, to Be Commemorated by Bronze Marker.

Associated Press.

BOSTON, July — On the site where stood Washington Hall on Bromfield street, a bronze tablet will be placed to commemorate the first visit of Abraham Lincoln to Boston in the summer of 1848. Lincoln, clad in an alpaca coat because of the sultry New England heat, on that occasion addressed a Young Men's Whig club" rally, telling the members why General Zachary Taylor should be elected president.

The dedication ceremonies will be held during the G. A. R. national encampment which opens here August 10. The tablet, provided by the municipal commission on marking historical sites, will be from the design of Walter G. Page, an artist who is chairman of the commission. The bas-relief will be executed by John F. Paramino

Washingtonian Hall, as such ceased to exist more than 60 years ago, but the structure itself, until its recent demolition stood as the only building in this city that ever sheltered Abraham Lincoln. The structure rising on the site will carry the plaque.

On the opposite side of the street, not more than 30 feet away, stood the Bromfield House at which in 1861 John Wilkes Booth stayed during his only professional engagement in this city.

Lincoln spoke on the night of September 15. The meeting being advertised in five lines in the local Whig papers which merely stated that "Hon. Mr. Lincoln of Illinois" was to address the club and suggested that the affair be made a "rouser." The Boston Atlas the next day reported a speech of an hour and a half which for sound reasoning, cogent argument, and satire we have seldom heard equalled. It was added that the speakers remarks were frequently interrupted by rounds of applause and "as soon as he had concluded, three arousing cheers were given for Taylor and Fillmore and three more for Mr. Lincoln, the Lone Star of Illinois."

Boy Scouts to Go On First Hike Tomorrow

The Boy Scouts will meet at the M. E. Church tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock to go to the lake for their first hike. Rev. W. B. Archer is reorganizing the Boy Scouts which were disbanded some time ago. Any boys who have not yet joined but wish to go on this hike are requested to meet the Scouts at the appointed time and place with provisions and blankets for spending the night in camp. This is not a church troop of Scouts and any boys who wish to go on the hike are invited.

Building in South Increases During First Half of Year

Building in sixteen southern states for the first six months of 1924 held firmly at the record levels established for the section in 1923, in the face of predictions that there would be a slump. In fact, a small gain of 2 per cent was registered by 169 cities reporting to the semi-annual survey of G. L. Miller & Co. real estate bond company of Atlanta, which has been compiling similar statistics during the past three years.

The total of the reporting cities where comparative statistics are available is $270,671,850 against $265,677,850 for the same cities in 1923. In order to reach these figures during the present year a tremendous volume of small, essential building had to be maintained; for in most states the very large individual structures which dominated the construction records of the past year were absent.

Speculative building reached a low ebb during the six months. Residential construction was even more active than in past years, with the high level of construction of these homes being maintained. Hotels and apartments again featured the classification lists, many magnificent structures of this type being reported from Maryland to Texas. Industrial expansion suffered a slight loss, due to hesitant market conditions resulting from the presidential election year. The election of school and college buildings continue unabated.

Record figures were made in many states throughout the section. Nine of the sixteen states included in the survey showed increases. The majority of the states east of the Mississippi river were above last year's figures, only Virginia, Georgia and Mississippi where abnormal building programs were apparent in 1923, failed to reach last year's levels.

South Carolina leads the list of the states in percentage of gain for the six months, establishing a record of 31.5 percent. Much of this is due to the excellent showing of Greenville, and Spartanburg, where a number of large structures were reported for the period. West Virginia, with 15.2 per cent, and Florida, with 39.1 per cent, followed in order. The consistent gains of practically all the West Virginia cities was one of the features of the survey. The state which has produced a presidential candidate for the first time has also had a most wonderful year of development, which centered particularly around Huntington.

Alabama, Maryland, Louisian and Kentucky, which follow in the percentage table, are all dominated by exceptional building programs in a single principal city. Birmingham, Baltimore, New Orleans and Louisville, all experienced their banner half year construction period, and their gains were so large as to dominate the figures reported from their states at large.

Although Texas suffered a slight lapse, due in large measure to the absence of large buildings in some of the smaller cities, it still maintains its position at the top of the list in the actual totals. Fifteen cities report he sum of $12,211,807, which is more than ten million dollars in excess of Maryland, the second state which in turn leads Missouri by a million.

CUMBERLAND GAP GAP AS PARK SITE

coal, nor gas, are found there in commercial quantity or quality, and the mountain forming sandstones themselves are not of sufficient hardness for the most part to provide suitable materials either for building or highway construction.

Has Natural Beauty

"Like other rugged areas in the Southern Appalachian coal field, its agriculture is insignificant and far from self-sustaining for the local population. The Gap region, however, though barren of much of material wealth possesses great natural beauty and physical charm. It has besides a very delightful climate, particularly in the summer.

"Located on a long craggy mountain range in a region where many peaks, though rounded on but slightly disturbed sediments, exceed that of the great parallel barrier ridges the Pine and Cumberland the "Gap" is a nation's gateway. This historic pass, 1640 feet high, is readily accessible to automobile tourists for the well-known Dixie A route, now complete in Kentucky, passes through it. Travelers going by train will use the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

"Standing on Pinnacle Mountain just above and to the east of the Gap a vista of from 30 to 50 miles over a sea of blue crested, timbered ridges is obtainable in most any direction. Here at this point come together three states; Kentucky, Virginia, and Tennessee. Down below and to the northwest is a broad, upland valley itself at an elevation of 1,200 feet above sea level is the thriving town of Middlesboro, one of the industrial marvels of the Kentucky mountains.

"Cumberland Gap is picturesque, strategic, historic. It possesses all of the physical qualifications of the ideal state park site. It was topographically surveyed on the Cumberland Gap quadrangle, to the scale of 1:125,000, with a contour interval of 100 feet, in the year 1882. A new edition was issued in 1917."

Industrial Business Good in Kentucky

Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, July 21.—All plants are reported operating and labor is fairly well employed with the exception of the leather industry in which part-time operations continue and a surplus of labor exists, the industrial employment information bureau speaks of conditions in Frankfort. Textile mills continue to operate full time and full force; and building construction is sufficient to employ local supply of craftsmen, is the report.

Saxony's Saxophone

WASHINGTON, July 17. — Saxony has sent out an S. O. S. "Send Our Saxophones." Jazz music has swept Saxony like a tidal wave, but there is only one saxophone in the whole country, the chamber of commerce has been informed by the American consul at Leipsic. Saxon musicians are anxious to master the instrument.
